REPORT REG'ULAR MEETING OF TOWN COUNCIL

A regular meeting of the Gleichen Town Council was held in the town office, with Mayor Ostrander and Councillors W. McConnell, C. Thompson, W. McKay and D. McDonald present.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read and adopted. Motion of D. McDonald and W. McConnell. The water seepage into the basement of the I.O.O.F. building had been investigated and it was reported that this was due to irrigation water, and that it had been stopped. In connection with the proposed sewer connection for J. A. Menard, it was reported that the parties concerned had been interviewed and all were interested and in favor of having the sewer connected. It was moved by Councillor W. McConnell and seconded by Councillor McKay that the matter be turned over to Councillor McDonald to handle with full power to act. At this point W. W. Brown, awaiting on the council to discuss the sewer question on his property lot, 8-7 Black B to the manhole on 6th Avenue and Crowfoot Street. The matter was discussed at length and at twenty years since this sewer connection was made, the secretary was instructed to go back to the records and make a search for the receipt dealing with the matter, and that the same be dealt with at a future date.

The secretary was instructed to take title to properties which had come back to the town through Tax Recovery proceedings.

The secretary read a letter from Mr. Boyd in connection with account of Tremco Limited for paint used on the water tower. The secretary was instructed to notify Mr. Boyd that rather than to pay any further expense in the matter the town would use this material, and payment would be made in due course.

An application had been received to rent lots 14-17 in Block E. It was decided to notify the applicant that for rent for same would be $15. From October 1, to March 31. This is to be paid upon taking possession and there to clean up the places and put in shape. The town will repair the two windows.

A letter had been received from E. Grieback requesting the town to supply him with drinking water, and suggesting that the town dig a well for him on his property. The secretary was instructed to notify Mr. Grieback that the town was not in a position to dig a well at the present time.

The secretary presented a list of arrears of taxes. He was instructed to arrange for the collection of all arrears of business tax for 1930. The by-law provides for the payment of all business taxes before July 1st of each year.

A plan of the proposed repairs to the ceiling of the Community Hall was presented and the matter was laid over until next meeting. It appears that a lot of the heat goes out through the cracks in the ceiling, and it is proposed to cover these cracks and conserve the heat.

A list of receipts and expenditures was presented and were ordered embodied in the minutes.

The meeting was informed that at the tax sale held in August no bids had been received for any of the property offered. The relief question was discussed and the secretary was instructed to write the Department for a definite scale of relief and have it ready for the next meeting. A by-law was introduced to provide for the licensing of owners or operators of vehicles ordinarily used for the conveyance of goods, wares and merchandise, and performing work for hire or gain. This was carried after three readings.

Honoring Miss Betty Taylor, who is leaving to train in the General Hospital, Calgary, Mrs. J. A. Menard and Miss Maureen Young were co-hostesses at a bridge party, where four tables were played. First prize was won by Miss Allison Evans and consolation by Miss Phyllis Blesdon. The guest of honor was presented with a week-end bag, on behalf of those present and her many friends extend to her their good wishes for much happiness in her chosen profession. Following the bridge party a very dainty lunch was served by the hostesses.

GIVES LECTURE ON CONDITIONS IN AUSTRALIA

The well-attended lecture on Australia, given by Miss Grace B. Pattullo, of Edmonton, on her recent five months tour of the island continent, proved of great interest to all ages last Friday night. Miss Pattullo was the Dominion winner of an essay contest on Australia, and since receiving from her prize trip has been giving lectures on the continent she has fallen in love with. She said she was much impressed with the enterprise an initiative of the Australian people as a whole, their enthusiasm in managing agriculture scientifically and their great kindness and hospitality.

Taking her audience past the ports of Honolulu, Suva and Auckland, she brought them up to Australia's gateway and largest metropolis, Sydney, showing them miles of wooded coasts, surfing beaches, splendid suburbs, and the Harbor Bridge, dominating all. Then to sheep stations where she did sheepherding, and saw the long crinkly Merino, wool being baled and sent to high warehouses, off to the exchanges where it is snatched up by eager buyers. The glories of Canberra, the federal capital, business of Newcastle steel works were contrasted, while in Melbourne business men with Victorian at their Grecian-type shrine of remembrance.

Gleichen people whose profits are derived directly or indirectly from the C.P.R. irrigation were interested to hear of Mildura town which put in veils and ripening stations along the Murray River to transform a desert scrub area into fabulously rich miles of grape vines, palms and citrus trees. Canada already knows of Mildura's fine raisins, canned fruit, wine, currants, but Miss Pattullo sternly hinted that their incomparable fruit or should soon be known in a great many more homes.

In South Australia, Miss Pattullo showed us worthy people in Adelaide celebrating the hundred years birth day of their colony, and where educational systems are second to none in the world. Miss Pattullo was entertained by clubs and organizations, when she told them of Canada thus increasing their interest in answering their questions. Tasmania was remembered for the quest of unusual estates, Bridestown haven der farm, also its mountains and hills. While Western Australia through Miss Pattullo's eyes was lovely with its treeless flowers, peculiar trees and animals and idyllic little city, Perth, on the river Swan.

In Brisbane, capital of the "Sunshine State", Queensland, Miss Pattullo was royally welcomed with flowers etc., by the hospitable people, saw the city and river from the tower of the magnificent city hall, and the houses on stilts surrounded by tropical flowers and fruits. Staying for seven days on the wonderful Day Dream Isles in Her Reef, the coral formation regarded as one of the seven wonders of the world, she concluded her tour, and returned by the C.P.R. "Niagara" steamship with many cases of curios.

The tableau of souvenirs she exhibited during her talk were handled afterwards for closer inspection, and we feel sure everyone present had fond feelings and a much greater interest in Australians and their marvellous country. They have achieved much in a very short time, and Miss Pattullo believes Australia is pointing the way to Canada for fuller and deeper realization of the meaning of nationhood under the British flag.

GLEICHEN UNITED CHURCH

Sunday, October 4th, 1930.
Rev. J. N. Wilkinson, minister.
Mrs. H. Birch, choir leader.
Miss Jean Farquhar, pianist.
11 a.m. Church School.
7:30 p.m. public worship. Subject: "A Man That Went to Hell."

Nearly everyone is familiar with this man's crime and its tragic end but perhaps many have tried to understand the steps by which he came to disaster and that is the most important thing about him as far as we are concerned.

There will also be a talk to the girls and boys about a little for that has spoiled a lot of gardens around Gleichen.

THE INTERSCLASTIC MEET WILL BE HELD NEXT WEDNESDAY

The Inter school sports will take place next Wednesday afternoon, October 1st, instead of Friday, October 9th. This change of date was made at the request of Gleichen business men who wished to attend the sports, as Wednesday afternoon is a half holiday.

E. L. GRAY EASTERN IRRIGATION SCHEME TO SPEAK HERE

Under the auspices of the Gleichen Board of Trade, Mr. E. L. Gray, general manager of the Eastern Irrigation District at Brooks will give a public address in the Community Hall at Gleichen on Monday, October 12th at 8 p.m. Before being appointed manager of the Brooks Irrigation scheme, Mr. Gray was a prominent agriculturist in the employ of the Provincial Government and he fully understands the difficulties of the dry farmer as well as the farmer in the irrigation districts. The Eastern Irrigation scheme in the district are cordially invited to be present and hear Mr. Gray discuss the problems of the day which are facing the farmer. He will no doubt have also something to say about the Brooks Irrigation scheme which a meeting with so much success.

THANKSGIVING DAY TO SEE RUGBY GAME HERE

An unusual sport event will take place here on Monday, October 12th, Thanksgiving Day, when a Junior Rugby game will be played between the Arrowwood Panthers and the Gleichen Red Devils, at 2:30 p.m. at the fair grounds.

REPORT OF U.F.W.A. MEETINGS FOR SEPTEMBER

The first meeting of the U.F.W.A. for September was held at the home of Mrs. Duncan McBean. The roll call was answered by "A Proverb". Thirteen members and visitors were present. Mrs. Etheridge was programed for a paper on "Calf Trails", but was not present. Mrs. McArthur favored the meeting with two songs. The raffish prize was won by Mrs. McLeay, which was a box of stationery. After the meeting a dainty lunch was served.

Mrs. Quinnell was the hostess for the second meeting, held on September 24th, when some twenty-four members and visitors were present. Mrs. Buckley in the chair. The opening song being "The Bells of St. Mary's". Roll call was answered by "Most Famous Living Politician". Mrs. A. Wilson read the bulletin on Health.

A discussion took place regarding activities for fall and the ladies decided to arrange a tea and sale of home cooking for October 24th. A display of fancy work will be shown in the window of the Shoprite Store, on which tickets are being sold at 10c each for raffia of same. Tickets can be purchased from Mrs. R. Unbrite.

Mrs. Samons won the tea prize which was a glass trinket bowl.

A lovely lunch was served by Mrs. McKeever, Mrs. Keeford and Mrs. Quinnell. Arks and Lenard Quinnell sang two songs which the ladies very much appreciated. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. W. McKeever on October 8th, when the men will also meet to talk over the new irrigation scheme. All outsiders are cordially invited.

The school fair Tuesday proved to be a very successful affair. All departments of the prize list was well filled.

THE UNIVERSITY TO BE ON THE AIR AGAIN SOON

"When is the University Station coming on the air again?" "We have missed the University programs badly this summer. When does the station commence broadcasting again?" These and similar questions are being received by the Department of Extension every day, by telephone, mail, and through personal visits. The answer to all is that the opening program inaugurating the ninth year of the University Station's activities will be broadcast on Friday October 2nd, commencing at seven o'clock. The regular schedule for the fall months begin on the following Monday.

There is naturally the widest variety in listeners' tastes, and in building the program each year, considerable thought is given to making the talk series, music and drama of interest to varied groups. The program for this fall there is something for almost everyone. The farmers have long appreciated the work of the scientific agriculturists at the University, and the radio brings them in to almost daily contact with these men who, on the Farmers' Forum, given at ten o'clock, give the very latest information and advice on agricultural matters. The interests of women and the general listener are not forgotten in the afternoon series. Are you interested in nature, and do you want to develop the "Seeing Eye?" Then make a note of the talks to be given by Leslie Sam on "What Nature Can Show Us." This naturalist will take his listeners for rambles round the countryside, and they will find that under Mr. Sara's direction, the common sights of the field wood will open new vistas of interest and delight. The Health Period still has its place on Monday afternoons at two o'clock. This series has a large following, as listeners know they can absolutely depend upon for advice and information given, coming as it does direct from the Provincial Department of Health. Then there will be commentaries on current affairs for those who have not much time for reading and yet want to keep abreast of the news. The Book Charts will be continued by Miss Jessie Montgomery of the Extension Library, and will bring news of the latest books added to the Open Shelf library, which will be available to the listener for borrowing. The title of a new series, "Poets and Music" should intrigue many. Phyllis Chapman Clark, who is to give the series, is a well-known Calgary musician, and has the reputation of being able to impart her enthusiasm to those who just some of the talks scheduled for the afternoon. Music will also take a larger place in the Farm and Home Forum.

On the evening programs there are many attractions for both those wishing good entertainment from music and drama, and those who are looking to the future study. How about taking a language course this winter? Two are being offered—German and French Conversational Courses, at 9:30 o'clock on alternate days. Last season there was a class of about 600 students for the French course, varying in age from 8 to 80 years. "It is never too late to learn," and a number of these students took the course for the sake of going to school again. These courses offer a splendid opportunity for the High School student to learn how to speak the language from teachers who are noted for their pure diction, for the lessons are prepared and recorded by trained exponents of their own language in both France and Germany. To follow either of these courses it is necessary for students to have the required text books, and these can be obtained by writing to the Department of Extension, University of Alberta, in Edmonton.

There are two alternative fees for each course, the French and the German: 1. For the advanced student who wishes to use the course for improving his pronunciation, there will be a fee of $1 which will include the main Conversational Text, and certain mimeographed material. 2. For the beginner or the student who is studying the language without the help of a teacher there will be a fee of $1.75, which will include: Main Conversational Text, Explanatory Notes on the Conversational Course, Students' Key to Grammar Exercises, mimeographed material. Listeners with scientific leanings, will be glad to learn that the Science Question Box is to be continued, but has been changed to an evening hour eight o'clock on Mondays.

There are Shakespeare lovers everywhere, and also many people who would like to become more familiar with our English poet. This winter they will have the opportunity, for a course on Shakespeare will be given by Dr. S. W. Dyke, who has been a lover of Shakespeare all his life and has opened new channels of delight for hundreds of students through his teaching. A frank discussion of view points is always stimulating, especially if presented by men with keen minds and a wide outlook. Listeners will have the opportunity of joining the Round Table group on Thursday evenings at 8 o'clock, when subjects of universal interest will be discussed. Notable visitors will also be heard whenever the opportunity arises. Talks are by no means the only programs to be heard on the University station. The CKUA players will be on the air again on Tuesday night at eight o'clock, and will be welcomed by their large and enthusiastic audience. A very interesting series of plays is to be given this winter, dedicated to the dreamers throughout the centuries who have "yearned beyond the sky-line, where the strange roads go down."

Then for the music lovers there are the organ recitals given by Prof. L. H. Nichols on the beautiful memorial organ in Convocation Hall, artist programs, and daily Symphony Hours from seven to eight, which gains a larger and larger audience every year.

This year CFCN will co-operate with the University in carrying full talks series, both noon and evening, and so give the University programs an outlet in Calgary and in the south of the province. The programs will be carried by the lines of the Alberta Government telephones, and the new hook-up will be known as the Alberta Educational Network.

The University Radio Station is your station—yours to use and enjoy. Write to the Department of Extension for the Radio Bulletin giving details of the fall programs, and then choose from the many good things offered in education, music, literature, drama, and plan to listen regularly and so make the coming winter a profitable one.

Robert Morton aged 82 years died in Eventide Home Friday morning, the funeral taking place Saturday afternoon to Eventide cemetery. Adj. Sutherland and Salvation Army officials officiated. Country Elevators AND Grain Marketing Elevator companies, including the Pools, are members of the Winnipeg Grain Exchange and use it in exactly the same manner and for exactly the same reason. They use it because the futures market is the best method which has been so far devised to protect the farmer and to ensure low handling charges. It is not used by either the Pools or the other elevator companies for the purposes of profit.

The Pooling method, which is the only other method which has been tried to date in Canada, cost the West many millions of dollars. It is no longer seriously advocated, even by those who invented it. If in the future any organization, commission or government can evolve a system of marketing Canada's crop which will consistently return to the farmer even a fraction of a cent more than he obtains through the present methods, the line elevator companies will be the first to endorse and adopt such a system. At the present time all elevator companies (including the Pools) market grain in exactly the same way because it is the best and cheapest way which has yet been devised.

Fair competition is the farmers' safeguard.

Propaganda by the Pools, through the Western Producer, country newspapers and field meetings, attacking the elevator companies because of marketing methods which the Pools themselves adopt, is untrue and hypocritical and merely designed to abolish the competition which is the farmers' best protection.

Advance notices had been plentiful alluring about the event at which "Play-Girl" was to make her debut, take off her mask, as it were, and face the world she had flouted. She had been living in New York for some time, the newspapers discovered—with the help of Michael Fairbourne in charge of the Tarrance Publishing Company's publicity department—and because she had become the most-talked-of, and up to them, retiring, of all anonymous celebrities, it was fitting that she should come out of that retirement with a flourish of publicity trumpets.

Everybody was curious about "Play-Girl." Some insisted that she would be discovered to be some starved and disappointed old maid who had soothed her repressions through the imagery of her book. Others voted for a blonde divorcee—several were openly mentioned—while still others insisted there was no "Play-Girl" at all (they got it from authentic sources, of course) but that the whole book was a symposium of collected experiences which had been ghosted by the firm's own Beatrice Fairfax who was, they were assured, fat and well past fifty with several quite up and coming grandchildren. It was hard for anyone to believe that there really existed in the flesh any young and beautiful woman who could have sinned as violently as "Play-Girl" and then cold-bloodedly and analytically have written about her experiences, playing with them with the same skill that a surgeon exhibits in wielding a scalpel.

At all events it was inevitable that everyone wanted to be among the first to see "Play-Girl" when the Tarrance Company introduced her to an eagerly awaiting public.

On the night of Starr's debut, therefore, the grand ball room at Pierré's was crowded. Everybody who was anybody socially, and modern enough to be seen where "Play-Girl" was seen, was there. Hol-pid would get their chances later, and there was an opportunity to cheer after her when she went to theatres and night clubs, pressing upon her their autograph books as though she was a movie celebrity. In fact, before "Play-Girl" made her appearance, she was more expected than any other star, for while they only portrayed the emotions of stories, "Play-Girl" had lived them. And still lived to tell the story.

With all the fanfare preceding her, Starr made a poised, effective entrance the night of her debut, ascending the steps from the balcony to the ballroom, scarlet-tipped fingers resting lightly on the arm of Michael Fairbourne.

Her gown was a seductive sheath of clinging black chiffon velvet, daringly cut, a startling foil for the misty pallor of her face. She had been sitting on one of her low chairs beside an inlaid table when Michael had come for her and he had stared. Starr realized her head had tilted his eyes, looking at her, surveying her from her cloud of black hair to the table edge. She had asked him, at the surprised look in his eyes:

"D-d-don't you like my frock?" And Michael: "I was just looking for it."

It was that kind of debut frock, a daring modiste's triumph. Her face, with the camelia skin, was as perfect as a cameo carved out of ivory. Her mouth was a pained, scarlet smile. The long black eyes so perfect to carry out all those stories about her royal Egyptian ancestry—were as deeply mysterious as those of any pictured priestess. And a soft mass of unrestrained, closely black curls added an odd touch to a picture of worldly sophistication. The one touch of color was the emerald necklace and bracelet which at a glance appeared of fabulous worth as antiques.

That was how Starr Ellison looked on the occasion of her debut into the glittering night life of New York, highly social, or otherwise. Starr Ellison, the infamous "Play-Girl."

A long murmur of interest that almost held a touch of awe greeted the arrival of the astonishingly lovely young woman who had at last cut off her anonymity in a sensational burst of publicity. It broke immedially into little individual mur-

From the men:

"Gorgeous!"

"I'd like to meet her!"

"I've got to meet her! No long distance worshipping for me!"

"Snappy number, eh, what?"

"If there's a good Egyptian sample, no wonder old Marc Antony went haywire!"

From the women:

"Brass hussy!"

"You wouldn't think she'd dare to come here or any place else with the reputation she's got!"

"As if it isn't bad enough to have lived the kind of life she's lived without writing her experiences for everybody to read!"

"I can well believe that about her Egyptian blood. They've always been decadent. I've read!"

"And they say that terrible book has made her a fortune, my dear!"

It was quite natural that some of the remarks should reach the girl on the steps, but she betrayed no embarrassment. Black eyes beneath unbelievable long, dusky lashes swept the ballroom with a glance of contemptuous mockery, with an odd, disdainful aloofness with which some long-gone princess might have looked on her slave.

Her painted smile never wavered. She turned and whispered to the man at her side something which her audience took to be one of the sarcastic witticisms of the variety with which her book was spiced.

What Starr Ellison actually said was:

"Michael-Hassan, I'm scared! My legs feel wobbly. I don't think I can walk a step farther!"

Warm gray eyes reassured her. Michael patted her hand. Scared little airmen with the heart of a child. He hadn't thought of it in that light before. . . . Didn't know the thought had been coming to him by degrees during their intimacy of the preparation days. He had been preferring to remember where he had found her—Rot, all of it! She had been a La Luna habitue. . . . "Nough said."

He whispered tensely:

"Keep your courage, kid. You're doing great. Cheepers herself couldn't have knocked them any deadlier!" Then his eyes narrowed as he shot her a quick glance. "And for the love of mud, don't call me 'Hassan'!" . . . Some of them might not understand.

Starr's long eyes passed over him slowly.

"I understand, Has—Michael. Don't let it worry you. Everybody will understand that your interest in 'Play-Girl' is because you're so loyal to the interests of your firm."

Michael flushed at the unexpected rebuff, but said nothing. Perhaps he had made a mistake in assuming with the girl an air of camaraderie. After all, theirs was a most meticulous business arrangement.

In short order Starr was introduced ed to more people than she could ever hope to remember. It was bewildering. She was conscious all the time, too, of an undercurrent of antagonism, disapproval in too many cases. She knew she was being measured by her reputation. The kiss-and-tell girl.

In a quieted her, drinking in the hostile lordliness. Some of them managed to inject an undertone of suggestiveness beneath their most casual remarks.

Starr understood. They were wondering how far they could go: they were trying her out. They were fancying themselves in the role of this famous beauty's newest play-partner. She, who had never had a love affair in her life, could have taken her pick of twenty lovers that night and she chosen to offer the slightest encouragement.

The women were to their guard; conversation stilled, eyes on their men, as though mortally afraid that their own husbands or sweethearts would be "Play-Girl's" next game.

It was strange, this being the centre of attraction. It was a strange undertaking upon which she had embarked. Starr was most uncertain in her own mind whether this kind of "playing" was a game worth the candle of luxurious living. For six months. But she had to go on. Must!

Starr felt a hand draw her from out a circle of curious admirers and turned to face Michael. And a girl. In the girl's eyes was that touch of interest that is usually in the eyes of a juvenile scientist with a butterfly on a pin. The girl smiled oddly and slowly.

"So you are 'Play-Girl'?" she drawled. "Well, I am certainly interested to meet you!"

Starr heard Michael murmuring the name of Stephanie Dale in the moment she noticed that Stephanie substituted "interested" for the conventional "pleased." There was an unpleasant infection in the imperious voice; further unpleasantness in her haughty riles.

She made her remark much in the manner she might have said, "How interesting!" viewing the freaks in a sidelong through a jeweled log-nette.

The girl Michael wanted to marry was a slim, pink and white blond. Her eyes were as brilliantly blue as sapphires, and as cold. She wore all white and looked like a pale hot-house flower against Starr's vivid coloring.

Starr felt a vague quickening of her pulses. Of all the people she had met this high, Stephanie Dale was the first to register indubitably in her consciousness.

Duplicates Of Crown Jewels

London Firm Busy Filling Orders For Coronation Display

The "crown jewels" of England are coming to America—in cargo lots.

In fact, if the United States should decide to enthrone a king any time within the next few months there will be enough glittering crowns on hand to outfit a whole royal family.

With King Edward VIII's coronation set for next May, a London firm is busy turning out duplicates of the famous British crown jewels.

Scores of orders have come from American cities for display in connection with next year's coronation ceremonies, while dozens of others have come from Australia, New Zealand, Canada and South Africa.

Except that the "gem" are glass and the "gold" is imitation, the crowns are identical with the historical jewels which are kept under heavy guard in the Tower of London.

Each set contains five crowns, five swords, six scepters, two orbs, the spurs and bracelets of St. George, and other regal paraphernalia including the famed Order of the Garter.

Claim Made That Diamonds and Rubies Can Be Mined In Edmonton Area

Diamonds and rubies can be mined within Edmonton's city limits. This is the belief of Ferdinand Pomahac, a contractor who claims to have found rough crystals he believes stupor.

Mr. Pomahac, who has visited diamond fields in South Africa, said the crystals would cut glass in the same manner as a diamond. He displayed a stone which he contends is a genuine ruby and so appraised by an Edmonton jeweler.

Location of the find is withheld by the "city prospector" who declares he has a valuable find. He intends to acquire rights to the property and develop the field.

Pomahac made a study of geology in Germany and is convinced he will produce diamonds and rubies in commercial quantity. Part of any financial benefits accruing from the venture will be used to care for sick children in Edmonton hospitals, he says.

Little Helps For This Week

The eternal God is thy refuge, and underneath are the everlasting arms. Deut. 33:27.

Within Thy encircling arms we lie,
O God, in Thy infinity:
Our souls in quiet shall abide,
Beset with love on every side.

"The Everlasting Arms." We think of that whenever rest is sweet. How the whole earth and the strength of it is beneath every tired creature to give it rest, holding us always. No thought of God is closer than that. No human tenderness or patience is greater than that which gathers in its arms a little child and holds it, heedless of weariness. And He fills the great earth, and all upon it, with this unseen force of His love that never forgets or exhausts itself, so that everywhere we may lie in His bosom and be comforted.

Made in Canada

Donation Manufactures Some Of World's Finest Ink

Canada is more responsible than any other country in the Empire for the world's split ink. She is the chief producer of carbon black, one of the principal ingredients of printers' ink. The Chinese ascribe the invention of ink to T'ien T'heua, who lived between 2607 B.C. and 2597 B.C., and it is known that the ancient Egyptians prepared and used inks at a very early date. An Egyptian document— a papyrus— with written characters of the date 2500 B.C. is still in existence. Two thousand years later the emperors of Greece and of Rome were wont to sign their decrees with a flourish in purple ink. Since these days the numbers and kinds of ink have been many, and today some of the finest inks in the world are manufactured in Canada.

Strange Civic Custom

The strangest civic custom of modern times is still practiced in Lhasa, Tibet. The privilege of being mayor of the city for the first 23 days of the year is sold by auction. The highest bidder assumes his mayoral duties, rules the city as he thinks fit, and keeps all the money he can raise through additional taxation and fancy fines.

Luxury For Pigs

Cold shower baths have been installed in what are believed to be the most luxurious pig sties in the world, at Ems Llanus, New South Wales. If the animals are kept cool in hot weather, it has been found that they fatten better.

Sunlight is about 618,000 times as bright as the light of a full moon.

Town & District

Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Black spent the week-end in Banff.

Jack Hewison, mayor of Stobart, failed to uphold the dignity of his office one day last week when he was seen digging potatoes with his shirt off—possibly he thought it was Indian summer time.

While away on their holiday last week Rev. and Mrs. J. N. Wilkinson called on friends at Stobart. At that place Mrs. Wilkinson met a friend to whom she had given a small fern some twenty years ago. After all these years the plant is still thriving and doing well. Mrs. Wilkinson brought home a stem of the plant to show friends here.

Last Sunday night, Miss E. L. Eason, school teacher from Gleichen, met with an auto accident while nearing Redcliff. A horse ran across the road and was hit by her car turning the car over in the ditch. Miss Eason and her companion were picked up by a passing motorist and taken to Medicine Hat. The occupants were not seriously hurt but the horse died, apparently from a broken back. We are unable to find who the owner of the horse was.—Redcliff Review.

STATE CREDIT HOUSE POSSIBLE FOR GLEICHEN

Social Credit is apparently coming to Gleichen. Mr. Smart, who is well known in the district, having for a good many years been manager of the Royal Bank of Canada at Langdon, has been in town looking over the possibility of establishing a State Credit House in a suitable location. The old post office block, jewelry shop, the old pool hall and various other buildings have come in for consideration. Nothing has been definitely arranged but the very presence of the Mr. Smart is an indication of the activity of the Provincial Government towards establishing State Credit Houses.

In Mr. Smart's opinion the establishment of at least two if not three State Credit Houses will be undertaken in each riding and in all probability one of these will be located in the town of Gleichen. Prosperity certificates seem to be circulating quite easily but of late have rather disappeared.

The Girl Guide sale on Saturday proved to be a very successful event. The girls sold everything they offered for sale. Miss Jean McConnell was the lucky winner of the 36 pound pumpkin raffled.

Don't Spoil Your Savings

THE accumulated assets of the life insurance policy-holders of Canada are the largest—by far the largest—single class of investment holdings in the country. They include every type of non-speculative investment, but owing to the nature of the insurance contract the greater part of them consists of credit claims against property, with principal and interest payable in fixed dollar amounts, rather than ownership equities whose value and income depend upon earnings. The owners of these investments are only nominally the insurance companies themselves, some of which administer total funds in which the shareholders' proportion is an almost infinitesimal part; the real owners are the holders themselves. And in spite of the existence of a fair number of very large policies which may be regarded as a class of rich men's investments, the typical policy holding is a matter of a few hundreds or thousands of dollars, the chief asset and the metaphorical anchor to windward of some industrial, commercial or professional worker who has not accumulated and never will accumulate any other important asset.

No act of destruction or partial destruction of the value of any such credit claim, be it a government bond, a municipal bond, a public utility bond, a railway bond, an industrial bond or an ordinary property mortgage, can ever fail to impair the assets of the life insurance policy-holders of the country. Any widespread destruction of such values must necessarily render the function for which those policy-holders rely upon them. The same is true of any tampering with the value of the unit of currency in which these credit claims are expressed. Policy-holders who have any real regard for the interests of their beneficiaries—the women and children for whose benefit the vast majority of life insurance policies are taken out—should set their faces immovably against all government tendencies leading to partial or complete repudiation of debt contracts, for such tendencies are destructive to the whole system of insurance.

The object of insurance is to make something sure. The effect of repudiation is to make everything unsure.

LOCAL NEWS ITEMS OF GLEICHEN AND VICINITY

Mayor J. E. and Mrs. Ostrander announce the marriage of their grand daughter Olga Caroline Patricia Irvine, daughter of Supt. T.H. Irvine, of Ottawa, to Donald Gibb, son of Major Gibb of Abbotsford, Quebec.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. John Siemens, a daughter, Lucille Hazel, Mrs. Belmont was Lucille Hansen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. G. G. Hansen. This baby is unique in that she has two grandmothers, two great grandmothers and two great great grandmothers living.

John Koefoed had the misfortune to be kicked in the leg by a horse one day last week. A bone was cracked and a piece broken off. At present he is in a hospital in Calgary. Mr. Koefoed has been singularly unfortunate with his legs. Some years ago he stepped on a nail and was laid up for sometime with blood poisoning. In 1931 he had his leg broken and owing to his advanced age spent many months in the hospital before he was able to be around again. And now he has this latest misfortune.

Word has been received here of the tragic death of Billie Treacy of Dorothy. The late Mr. Treacy was well known by all Gleichen stampede fans and was one of Alberta's most promising young cowboys. He was a successful contestant in many local stampedes during the past season. He was one of the three to split first, second and third money at Gleichen's big Annual Round-up and was winner of the consolation at Calgary. The deceased was 22 years of age and leaves to mourn his loss, his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. W. Treacy of Hussar, two brothers, Jim and Glen, and a younger brother, two sisters, Ruth and Joy, an aunt, Mrs. C. T. Armstrong, two uncles, Hank Trend and Billy Trend, all of the Hussar district, as well as his grandfather, Mr. W. Trend of Seattle, former well-known Alberta rancher. Funeral services were held in Bassano Tuesday and interment made in the Bassano cemetery.

MRS. PARDEE INSPECTS LOCAL GUIDE ORGANIZATION
Mrs. Pardee of Edmonton, Provincial Commissioner of the Girl Guide Association paid an inspection visit to the Gleichen division and local Brownies. During the afternoon of her stay she inspected the Cluny Guides and attended a meeting of the local Association, which was held at the home of Mrs. James Black and where a tea was given in her honor. When she inspected the Guides she addressed them and related many of her own actual experiences as well as teaching them many interesting games. The Commissioner was highly pleased with the work being done by the local guides and complimented them on their hall, which she said is a real credit to the local company. This is Mrs. Pardee's second visit to Gleichen, the first being on the occasion of the local guide organization work being undertaken here. On Sunday Mrs. Pardee attended the morning service in the chapel of the Old Sun School, on the Blackfoot Reserve, when the Indian Guides and Brownies were present. Although Arrowwood and Hussar belong to this division, Mrs. Pardee was unable to include these points in her inspection tour.

Police must repeat: there isn't enough original conversation to go around.
